“ C.R. & my Daddy, J.W.(Dub) Scott, worked together at Conalco in New Johnsonville for several years. My Daddy thought the world of him. C.R. always made a point to come by my office at City Hall to ask how my Daddy was doing when he would pay his bill. I also thought of him as a friend. My sincere thoughts go out to the family.

“ C. R. was a regular almost every Tuesday morning at the Lewis County Library. He would get upset if we called him “Mr. Baker” and insisted we call him C. R. He also spoiled the library staff often with homemade treats or fresh watermelon. He was the example of a southern gentleman and always had a fun story or important pictures of his family to share with us. We all looked forward to his visits and considered him a friend at the library and will be greatly missed.
