“ Uncle Clyde was a fun loving, hard working man, he had a goofy side and always made us laugh. As kids whenever we went anywhere and he was driving (in an automatic car) he would make it seem like he had to shift gears and make the car feel like it was changing gears. And as that was going on he would make gear and motor noises. As a kid we all thought that was funny. In our minds he was magic because we didn't know how he shifted gears without a lever to move and a clutch to use. He was also always there for us at the drop of a hat. He was forever being a surrogate father to all the kids whose parents were not around. Angela Enocksen Nall his niece
