“Frannie made this world a better place. She poured so much of herself into those around her, caring for others as God instructed. So many of us found ourselves being mothered by her over the years as she opened her heart and home to us. I always knew that whatever trouble I found myself in, I could knock on her door anytime, day or night, and be welcomed in with a big hug, have my body and spirit fed, and be allowed to stay until everything was better. She provided us with a safe space filled with love and completely devoid of judgment. I am safe and well today because of the care she took of me when I was younger. And I know that my baby sister, Leigh Ann, was anxiously waiting at the head of the line to hug Frannie's neck when she passed through Heaven's gates! May she rest now in the loving arms of her Savior.”
