“ I got a note from a dear friend yesterday, letting me know that Jeff had passed away. I was shocked to hear the news, having not seen or talked with him for years. In my mind, Jeff was still the (relatively) young soccer coach standing on the sidelines, yelling at our boys, and doing his level best to mold them into good young men!

There are several young men in the world who are better because of Jeff, and my son is one of them. I remember, once, when Jacob lost his temper on the soccer field. Jeff disciplined him accordingly, and then worried I would be upset as a result. Hardly! I remember hugging him and thanking him profusely for his guidance. Raising sons is hard, and Jeff’s caring concern made my job easier. He poured his care and concern into our children – not because he had to, but because he wanted to. I can think of no better legacy. I was proud to know Jeff, and I am thankful he came into our lives when he did.

Sandy, Jacob, Caleb, and families, my heart is with you today and in the coming days. May the Lord bless and keep you!

“ Jeff was just a good and godly man. We count their family as our own. To Sandy, Jacob, Caleb and their families we extend our most heartfelt sympathy. This world, and the lives of those who knew him, has been blessed by his presence and infectious smile. A void which can't be filled here, but a heavenly reward awaiting, and that is our comfort. God grant us recall of all the wonderful memories Jeff was a part of as our friend.
