“ I'm Nancy's cousin, and all my life, her father was named "Louis John Carter" not Larry J. No idea where that came from. Nancy and I spent several weeks together at our grandfather's farm, outside Albany MO, from summer to summer. I always wanted to spend as much time as possible there, Nancy, not so much. We had some fun. Both of us loved our connection to the farm where our fathers grew up, but both of us were looking forward to going somewhere else. Nancy met Edd and they moved to Tennessee. We had no contact during that time, but when I went to visit them, she told me how much they loved the rural area where they lived. It was a beautiful area, unfortunately lacking in economic opportunities. They loved their life there, never considered moving on, even after a forest just over the hill was clear cut by a lumber company. It's a very rural area. No mailbox is missing a few bullet holes. Targets. Nancy found her place, and loved it. I'm only sorry I didn't see her as much later in life. No idea she'd be gone so soon. --Larry Carter
