She leaves her son, Mike Staggs of Centerville, granddaughters, Keaton Morrissey and Rachel Staggs and her great-grandchild, Weston McCaleb. She was a member of the Centerville Church of Christ for 50 plus years.

Ms. Staggs had several careers, beginning as a temporary secretary and promoted to the executive office as a professional secretary to the president and vice-president at the Baptist Sunday School Board. She switched to the medical field and was a medical secretary and a medical and research assistant at Nashville General Hospital. She was a liaison between the Nashville Academy of Medicine and the Nashville Association of Medical Assistants. She was an office manager and assistant for two neurosurgeons.

After moving back to Hickman County, she worked at Maury Regional Hospital. She was also a real estate agent with Century 21. She later owned Centerville Foodland.

Her most loved career was being a mother to Jan and Michael and helping with her grandchildren. She held dear several nieces and nephews as well as great-nephew, Kevin Carroll. Her niece, Sherry Jones, was always there to help in many ways. Her nephew, Lynn Tidwell, brought much joy to her life by inviting her to see his lovely places of residence.
